Is your beneficiary information up to date?

Have you had a recent change in your life that could affect who you have named as your beneficiary? Have you not yet named a beneficiary on your KDC account? Perhaps you now have children or grandchildren and have not updated your contingent beneficiaries.

We like to remind you every so often to update your beneficiary(ies). It is important to name not only a primary beneficiary(ies) but also a contingent beneficiary(ies) as well. You can name as many beneficiary(ies) as you want.

Updating your beneficiary designation is done using a form that can be mailed or faxed. A beneficiary designation form is available on our website, www.kentuckydcp.com, or you can call KDC to have one sent to you.

Decisions regarding beneficiaries may have legal or tax implications. Consider consulting your own counsel before making retirement plan decisions.

MYTHS BUSTED:

Many deferred compensation assumptions just aren't true

As a participant of the KDC Plan, you're investing for retirement readiness through a tax-advantaged program designed for the unique needs of public workers. Chances are, you already recognize the benefits of Plan participation, but from time to time, we hear retirement-saving myths that should be addressed.

 “I plan to retire early but I worry about a withdrawal penalty prior to age 59½.”

Rest easy. The 457(b) Plan is an option with KDC. There is no excise tax (10%) penalty for assets withdrawn from a 457(b) plan prior to age 59½ or any other age, once you have separated employment. For those who are retiring earlier than 59½ the 457(b) may be the right plan for you. Of course, withdrawals of pre-tax contributions and their earnings would be subject to ordinary income taxes.

Exceptions:

- Assets rolled into the Plan from non-457(b) qualified retirement plans — such as 401(k), 403(b) or IRA assets — may be subject to a 10% penalty.

 “I’m beginning to worry that my pension may not provide enough retirement income for me, but it’s too late to do anything about it.”

You might be surprised what even a small increase in your contributions to your Plan account could do over time, and the Plan's catch-up options may allow you to contribute significantly more to your account. The income you contribute today could have decades to potentially grow and compound.

 “Once I retire, I have to start taking distributions from my account.”

The beauty of your Deferred Compensation account is the flexibility it offers once you are eligible for distributions. You DO NOT need to start taking distributions as soon as you retire, unless you are age 70½, the age at which you must begin taking Required Minimum Distributions of pre-tax dollars. In fact, you can take partial distributions from your account as you need the money. You can change your distribution election at any time or stop your distributions if you wish.

The Plan welcomes the opportunity to help you separate myth from truth, especially with decisions about retirement contributions or withdrawals. We encourage you to contact us any time you have questions about planning for retirement.

To discuss your options and opportunities through the KDC Plan, contact your KDC Retirement Specialist or call 1-800-542-2667.
